About This Index

Locators. Locators give the volume number followed by a colon and page numbers (4:157). Further locators in the same volume do not have repeated volume numbers (4:157, 159, 160). Entries for subjects of encyclopedia articles are indicated by boldface locators: 5:26–28. Subjects of illustrations are indicated by italic locators (6:524).

Arrangement. Entries are in word-by-word order. The order of precedence is:

one word

one word followed by a [space] (

one word followed by ,

one word followed by a [space] number

one word followed by a [space] letter

The following example illustrates these sorting principles. Notice that names followed by numerals are sorted in numerical order.

Articles at the beginning of a title (a, an, the, and their foreign equivalents) are disregarded in order arrangement. In the case of papal documents, however, the article is retained for filing purposes, since it is an integral part of the incipit from which the title is derived. Function words (prepositions and conjunctions) at the beginnings of subheadings are disregarded in order arrangement.
